His Excellency explained that the airport's management were always exploring opportunities to enhance the airport's capacity, to keep pace with the expansion and to fulfil the needs of different market sectors.

H.E. Sheikh Faisal Bin Saud Al Qasimi, Director of Sharjah Airport Authority, emphasized that Sharjah's unique position as an economic, commercial, tourism and cultural centre was the foundation for the airport's successes in 2018.

He said that the airport would continue to develop and grow, upgrading its services and implementing ongoing plans for development.

During 2018, Sharjah Airport's duty free area reopened after an upgrade. With a new total area of 1,800 square meters, the space has attracted new international brands, adding to the existing stores. The upgrade was part of an effort to diversify the airport's services and products.

Sharjah Airport is set to be expanded. The exterior will be shaped like the wing of a plane, ending in a structure shaped like a book, inspired by Sharjah as the Cultural Capital.

The project will include two departure halls and two passport control areas to maintain the flow of passengers.

It is expected that the support services buildings will be completed in the first quarter of 2020, while the project will be finished in the third quarter of 2022.

The airport's capacity is forecast to rise to 20 million passengers by 2025.
